Mrs. Kikaha Exhorts Natives to Vote Straight.

A Hawaiian Joan of Arc appeared at the meeting of the Republicans at Moiliili last night, and, mounting the platform, exhorted the voters present, whether Home Rulers or Democrats, to uphold the administration of Governor Carter and to cast a straight vote for the party of decency—the Republican.

The woman orator was Mrs. Kikaha, wife of the bailiff of the United States District Court. She was a commanding figure as she stood upon the platform in the half-light shed by flare-torches. Her gestures were emphatic but eloquent, and her voice, though keyed up to a high pitch, was clear and resonant. Her speech was a fine oratorical effort and she created a favorable impression.

Mrs. Kikaha said she was born in Moiliili and was well acquainted with the people of that district. She called the men there her brothers and the women her sisters. She called upon the voters to sustain the straight Republican ticket, and if there were any Home Rulers and Democrats yet remaining in the assemblage she asked that they cast aside their old affiliations and join the Republican party, which was the party of progress.

Iaukea, she said, was hired by the Democrats to run for Delegate to Congress. He was an uncertain man, for he jumped from one party to another. The Executive of the territory was a Republican and the Republican party was the party of decency (Cries of "Pololei! Pololei!").

In the campaign of 1902 she found many of those present were supporters of the Home Rule ticket, but on the coming 8th of November she hoped none would forget to vote for the Republican party, "for then you will continue to have poi and fish and all that you need."

"Set aside all bad feelings," she continued, "and vote for Prince Kuhio for Delegate to Congress, and also vote for my Senators and my Representatives. Some of them are men that fear God." ("Pololei!" shouted the crowd.)

E. W. Quinn, candidate of the Fourth District for the House of Representatives, next addressed the audience, speaking in English. He said, in part: "I ask you for your votes because I am and always have been a Republican." (Continued on Page 3.)

W. Daly Run Down On Richards Street.

Fracture at Base of Brain---Probably Will Die.

At a few minutes before six last night William Daly, better known as "Bill" Daly, was struck by a bullock that was being driven down Richards street and received injuries that may prove fatal. The bullock, which was about a year old, was being driven down to one of the island steamers by two native cowboys. The one on the Ewa side had a long rope attached to the animal's horns while the other and older of the two men rode by the side of the beast. According to eye witnesses the animal was being driven as fast as it could get over the ground and in a very reckless fashion.

As the cavalcade approached Queen street Daly, who had been drinking, stepped out of the Aloha Saloon and started to cross the street. As he did so the younger cowboy called out in English: "Go back." Daly looked up and hesitated, then instead of going back he attempted to go between the bullock and the horse with the result that he was struck in the side by the animal's head. He was thrown about ten feet and struck with great force on the back of his head.

Bystanders quickly picked him up and a hurry call was sent in for the patrol wagon. The injured man was bleeding heavily, clotted blood from both ears. When an examination was made at the Queen's Hospital a fracture was found at the base of the skull. At a late hour last night Daly's condition was unchanged and the chances were strongly against his recovery, although there is still some hope.

Daly is well known about town as a hackdriver and lately as an employee of the Republican Committee. In the latter role he has been distributing campaign literature. The police are informed as to the names of the cowboys and it is likely that an investigation of the affair will follow.

WAIT FOR WIRE FROM SEC'Y HAY

Governor Carter is awaiting instructions from Secretary Hay at Washington before announcing what plans he may have for the public reception of Prince Fushimi.

ASSAULT ON A PORT ARTHUR FORT.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLEGRAMS.)

MUKDEN, Oct. 19.—The Russians are holding the ground gained at Shakhe and have captured several Maxim guns.

RUSSIANS AGAIN ADVANCING.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 19.—The Russians are advancing against the Japanese left flank, which has been driven back with heavy losses. Torrential rains are hindering the operations.

CRUISER BAYAN SUNK.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Japanese shells have sunk the cruiser Bayan in the harbor of Port Arthur.

The destruction of the cruiser Bayan is a serious loss to the Russian navy for this vessel, an armored cruiser of twenty-one knots speed, has been very useful at Port Arthur, having borne the brunt of some severe fighting there. The Bayan was built at La Seyne in 1900. Her dimensions were: Length, 443; beam, fifty-six; depth, twenty-two. Her armament consisted of two 8-inch guns, eight 6-inch guns, twenty 3-inch guns, seven 3-pounders, and five torpedo tubes. The vessel was considered one of the finest fighting ships of the Czar's navy.

AFTERNOON REPORT.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 18.—The battle at Mukden has not given decided advantage to either army. Both armies are exhausted by the terrific fighting.

TOKIO, Oct. 18.—The Russians have repulsed a Japanese detachment under General Yamada, capturing 14 guns. The fight was a most desperate one, General Yamada finally succeeding in regaining his position.

The general assault by the Russian artillery on Monday was repulsed.

Washington, October 18, 1904.
(Received 1:20 p. m.)

To Japanese Consul, Honolulu.

Marshal Oyama reports that on Monday night the enemy twice made fierce assaults on the front of the right column of the left army and some smaller assaults on the direction of the central and the right armies, but we repulsed them all. The enemy retreated, leaving many corpses on the field. TAKAHIRA.

YAMADA'S SMALL FORCE LOSES FOURTEEN GUNS

Washington, October 18, 1904.
(Received at 6:45 p. m.)

To Japanese Consul, Honolulu:

One column of our forces under the command of the Brigade General Yamada proceeded on the 16th to reinforce the detachment of the left army which was attacking the enemy in the north of Shahopou. It attacked and defeated the enemy at Weechialritzu, capturing two guns and two ammunition wagons, and after again repelling enemy at Santaokautse was returning to the original position; when it was suddenly enveloped at 7 p. m. by a body of enemy of about one division strength. After a fierce hand-to-hand fight it succeeded in breaking through the enemy and regaining the original position. Meanwhile our artillery losing most of its men and horses was obliged to abandon nine field guns and five mountain guns. The enemy reinforced the front of the central army. Our casualties on Sunday were about one thousand. TAKAHIRA.
